

1826

PLAN OF EDINBURGH DRAWN & ENGRAVED FOR THE GENERAL POST OFFICE DIRECTORY.

by John Bartholomew for W. H. Lizars

A Hundred Years growth of the City may be studied from the above plan. There are no railway stations and the town hardly extends southwards beyond Tollcross and St. Patrick Square. The Dean Bridge does not exist, and even George IV. Bridge is only drawn "as projected." It is interesting to note that this is the first plan of the City engraved by John Bartholomew, founder of the present firm of John Bartholomew & Son, Ltd., who still produce the Directory Plan.